

DESIGNATION OF CONTINGENT BENEFICIARY (for Pre-retirement Survivor Annuity)

Complete this form if you are within one year of qualifying for retirement (age 48 with 25 years of service, or age 62 with 15 years of service) to designate a dependent other than a spouse to receive a Pre-Retirement Survivor Annuity in the event that the spouse does not survive you at the time of your death. If you do not have a contingent beneficiary form on file and are not survived by a spouse, any monetary benefit will be paid to your estate upon your death. Filing this form is not mandatory, however, it is important to do so if you have a qualifying dependent. This form must be signed by you, notarized and received by OP&F to be effective. Once you retire, this form is no longer valid.

A contingent dependent beneficiary is someone dependent on you for at least 50 percent of his/her annual income, who is not your spouse. You can only designate one beneficiary, but you may change this designation at any time by completing a new form or rescinding your previous designation in writing, but only your most recent designation will be effective. Documentation proving that your beneficiary is dependent on you for at least 50 percent of his/her annual income is required at the time the beneficiary may become eligible for benefits.

If an active member of OP&F has not retired, but is eligible to retire and receive a pension or benefit at the time of their death, their surviving spouse or contingent dependent beneficiary (if no surviving spouse) is entitled to receive an annual retirement allowance. This allowance equals what would have been paid to the surviving spouse had the member retired effective the day following the member's death (based on a 50 percent Joint and Survivor Annuity option). Payments are effective the first day of the first month following the member's death.
